Dear Mr. Lake,

I am writing to voice my strong objection to any legislation which would not allow full disclosure of the contents of foods and beverages consumed by all Americans. Any foods which are the product of genetic engineering must be labeled as such. In addition, all dairy products containing bovine growth hormone must be clearly labeled as containing this questionable and potentially dangerous substance. There have been no long term studies documenting the consequences of consuming bovine growth hormone.

Americans must have full disclosure of all the contents of the foods they consume in order to make intelligent and informed choices which will have major impact on their health and well being.

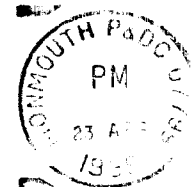

Sincerely,

Wendy Born Hollander
